

Life after Marv

Search is on after trustees buy out Weiss

BY CHAD E. BARNES
HawkEye editor

After two years of turmoil, CBC President Marv Weiss will retire Aug. 31.

CBC's Board of Trustees decided to buy out the remainder of this year of Weiss' contract for about $82,172.

The final total once accrued sick leave, vacation time and medical benefits are added is about $116,000.

None of that money is going to be taken from CBC's general fund, so it won't affect any educational programs at CBC.

That doesn't necessarily mean students won't be affected as $25,000 will come from the bookstore and $29,000 will come from food services. The rest of the money will be taken from various reserve accounts.

The final action by the board of trustees comes even though a clause in Weiss' contract would have allowed it to fire him at any time with 30 days' notice.

The action by the board of trustees follows about two years of conflict including:

- The suspension of a CBC teacher for alleged misconduct and/or sexual harassment. The teacher was reinstated and has a lawsuit pending.

- The nonrenewal of several teachers contracts, some of which have lawsuits pending.

- Weiss giving himself and his executive staff allegedly illegal pay raises at a time when faculty received none.

- Three votes of "no confidence" by CBC staff during a two-year period.

The board of trustees will probably look for a new president using the same technique it used to find Weiss. A search committee will be set up sometime this summer.

Photo courtesy of the Tri-City Herald

Marv Weiss will leave his CBC office Aug. 31 after two years of turmoil. "I am pleased with the accomplishments," he said.

In a letter to CBC faculty, staff and administrators Marv Weiss said, "I am pleased with the accomplishments at CBC over the past six-and-a-half years and I compliment the board of trustees in their of these positive changes and in their willingness to allow me to be on the 'cutting edge.'" Weiss continued, "We have an excellent institution and it is my hope that the Board of Trustees and the CBC employees will work together in finding a chief executive officer who will continue to lead them into the twenty-first century." Weiss said.

Calls to Weiss were not returned to the HawkEye. Around campus, sentiments were clear.

"I don't think he should be getting as much money as they're giving him, but I think they made the right decision," said Bethany Meyers, a fine-arts major from Richland.

"I believe it's a waste of our money, it's going lately be taken away from students," said Theresa Farrell an elementary education major from Kennewick.

"I think it's a good decision, it's going to quell a lot of controversy, a change of leadership will provide an opportunity for things to come together better for the students," said Aaron Deaver a criminal-justice major from Kennewick.

Soccer in, women's golf out

BY PAUL LINDBERG
HawkEye sports editor

Dave Dunterman sat quietly in the corner of the senate room May 26, ready to answer any question thrown his way.

For months the Columbia Basin College athletic director had been working on bringing a women's soccer program to CBC. And on this particular morning, the 1995 budget was going to be voted on by the student congress.

The budget included Dunterman's $5,000 proposal to fund the new sport.

But nobody offered a quandary or concern and the budget was passed unanimously.

Dunterman slipped out unnoticed.

"I knew there wouldn't be a problem," Dunterman said confidently. "We already had made a commitment to the league. Hopefully we'll get a good response and a lot of participation."

The lack of response and participation was the undoing of the sport dropped to compensate — women's golf.

"The program has been struggling the last couple years and we didn't see an improvement in the near future," Dunterman said.

Women's golf, which dwindled from eight players to one this season, was introduced to CBC just four years ago. But men's and women's golf coach John Howard said CBC may have not seen the last of the sport.

"A couple of years down the road it could be back," Howard said. "They say soccer will be successful and that's good for women's sports. But if the interest is there in a couple years, we may see (women's) golf again."

The passing of the budget didn't end Dunterman's quest. The next order of business is finding a coach.

The first open date for the position was June 6. Dunterman said one should be found within two weeks.

Next, equipment must be purchased.

"We're starting from scratch," Dunterman said. "We're going to buy home and away jerseys, balls, nets, socks, warmups and we have to build goals."

This all depends on the money situation. CBC has already raised $1,200 at soccer tournament concessions and received $500 from the league.

Dunterman said $2,000 to $3,000 still must be raised to offset costs.

CBC will play a 18-game schedule in a five-team sanctioned league including Spokane, Green River (Auburn), Highline (Federal Way) and Tacoma.

The Hawks will play nine home games and seven on the road. These include three games against each of the sanctioned schools, two home-and-home series against Skagit Valley (Mt. Vernon) and Shoreline (North Seattle) and two non-league contests against Whitman College of Walla Walla.

According to Dunterman, there are also a few more schools in the process of obtaining women's soccer programs — Walla Walla, Yakima Valley and Wenatchee.

"It's a feasible program," Dunterman said. "They may jump on the bandwagon if they see we have a successful program."

Are we going to see a successful program?

"I sure hope so," Dunterman said. "I'm really excited. The only question left is are we going to get the participation. We're going to give it a couple years and see how it goes."

HUB expansion set for summer

BY CHAD E. BARNES
HawkEye editor

$25,000 of which the ASB contributed.

The long-awaited expansion of the HUB will finally become a reality this summer.

For several years this project was discussed and now a combination of money from the state and from the ASB reserve fund will make it possible.

The project will include an elevator and a maintenance room that will provide disabled students greater access.

In addition, two conference rooms, one upstairs near the current senate room, and one downstairs in what is now the east ding room, will provide added space for the ASB.

CBC will begin accepting bids for the HUB expansion at 3 p.m. June 22.

They hope to have the contractor mobilized within 30 days after that.

The entire operation is expected to cost CBC about $175,000, $150,00 of which is a grant from the state; and

The ASB voted in congress and approved the $25,000 to be contributed to the remodeling effort.

"It won't increase student fees or tuition at all," said Jared Nielsen ASB president.

What it will do is provide the ASB and student government more room to work, something that has been a problem.

"For several years I've been hearing that the ASB does not have enough room in the HUB," said Bill Saraceno, vice president of administration, who is helping to coordinate the HUB expansion process.

Work on the HUB should be done by fall, providing full wheelchair access and a new more centralized area for student government.

"It will help make available more unity for those in the offices and a better location for student activities,"

Nielsen said.

"It will help make available more unity for those in the offices and a better location for student activities."

Jared Nielsen;
ASB president

Campus Calendar

On campus

International Film Series:

June 11, Perfumed Nightmare
June 18, China, My Sorrow
June 25, The Horse Thief

The films start at 7:30 p.m. in Room 1-102. For more information, call series coordinator Rich Cummins, 547-0517.

Finals are June 10, 13 and 14

Graduation commencement will be 6 p.m. Sunday, with doors in front of the P building.

Off campus

Concerts

Saturday at 8 p.m., "Chikong from Seattle: T'Chikong & Friends" that features tribal drumming and a fire blower, will be supported by Sage. Finest Truly's Salvation show and Tri-Cities new Spysial. Admission is $7 at the door at the flooddown center in the Richland area.

Gorge at George:

July 10, Yes

July 17, Dwight Yoakam

July 18, Crosby, Stills and Nash with Fleetwood Mac

July 23, Harp, Connick, Jr.

Aug. 5, George Washington Blues Festival

Aug. 20, Masilout

In the Seattle area:

June 8, The Pretenders, Moore Theatre

June 13-14, Grateful Dead, Memorial Stadium

July 19, Metallica with Alice in Chains, Memorial Stadium

July 25, Whitney Houston, Tacoma Dome

Literacy Tutor Training Orientation

This will be a two-hour introduction to the Literacy Program at CBC and will include information on various volunteer options including work with basic literacy students, incarcerated adults, senior citizens, immigrants, refugees, and other English as a second language students. The Literacy Tutor Program recruits and provides training and support to volunteer tutors who teach reading and writing to literate adults in Benton/Franklin counties. One-on-one tutoring is available. This program is free to all interested adults.

Date: Tuesday, June 14 Time: 6:30-8:30 p.m.

Place: Room R103, Richland campus

Follow-up training sessions in Basic Literacy Training will be on June 17 and 18, and English as a Second Language Training on June 24 and 25 will be held. For more information, call 547-0511, ext. 390.

CBC Community Education Offers Summer Classes

The Community Education Program at CBC offers many noncredit classes and programs for self-improvement. Classes meet at the Civic Center in Pasco unless otherwise noted.

Intro to Computers — July 12-26, 6-9 p.m., $45

Traffic Control — July 22, 9 a.m.-5 p.m., $30

Adult Family Home Provider Training — July 12, 14, 19, 21, & 26, 12:30-4:30 p.m., free of charge

July seminars

Wine Appreciation — July 22, 6-7 p.m., $7

Children:

Family sewing classes — two-week classes beginning June 13 and June 27

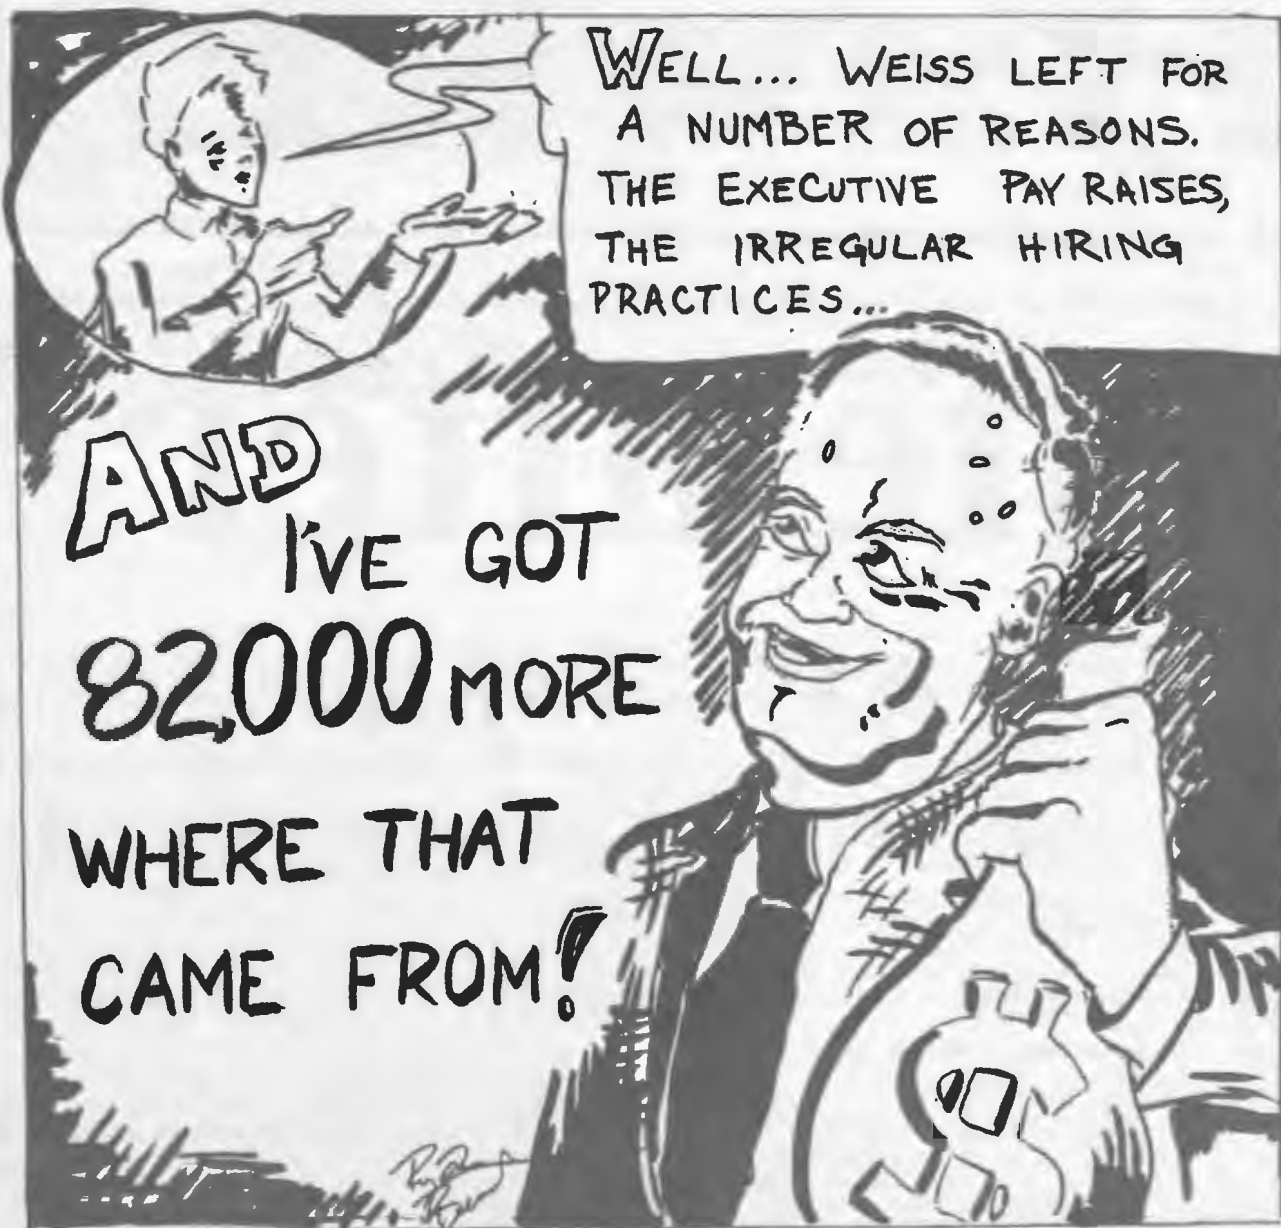

For more information on these and a schedule of other classes, call Lisa Patrick at ext. 225.

CBC students win honors at forestry tournament

The CBC forestry team successfully raised their season at the Tom McCall Classic Invitational Tournament at Clarkston College in Oregon City on May 6-7. Sophomore Shawn Sant took second place in sales presentation, and freshman Melvin "Joe" Schmidt Jr. took third place in after dinner speaking.

CBC team members participated along with students from 17 northwest colleges. CBC forensics coach Sallie Fisher accompanied the students.

Opinion

Clinton: a white-trash, dope-smokin' plumber

Blast No. 1: Bill Clinton.

Poor Bill has been embroiled in a lot of controversy lately, but I like him for several reasons.

The first thing I like about Bill Clinton is the precedent he set for future presidents: It's OK to smoke weed. I know Bubba said he didn't inhale but we have all heard the rumors, about the hot-boxed limousines and the smoke-outs with Al Gore.

The second thing I like about Bill Clinton is his white-trash roots. The guy came from a broken home with a single parent and has a lunatic brother who is a musician, I tell you, Bill Clinton is a real human, not just some rich boy born with a silver spoon in his mouth. The third thing I like about Bill Clinton is his affairs.

Gee whiz, Clinton laid a lot pipe.

It all adds up to one thing: We for once have a president who is a little bit closer to being a real human, instead of some codgy old coot with a decaying memory.

Blast No. 2: Board of trustees.

"Marvelous" Marv Weiss had been on the hot seat here at CBC for a long time. The faculty and administration gave him three votes of "no confidence" in regards to the way he was running things. Among his alleged indiscretions were nonrenewal of teachers contracts, the nasty suspension of Dave Abbott, a humanities instructor and sneaky pay raises for himself and his cabinet. After all this and more, I finally thought he was going to be fired or at least resign.

Much to my surprise, the board of trustees decided instead to buy out the rest of his contract. The board of trustees did this even though Weiss' contract provided them an opportunity to can him. I think the firing Weiss would have been a more financially viable alternative to buying out his contract. Gee, I wonder who is gonna eat the cost for the $116,000 buyout? The trustees are a bunch of weenies.

Blast No. 3: Women killed by cougar.

Every time I start to think that the world is OK, something stupid like this comes along. It is a sad thing that this woman, a jogger in Northern California, got mauled to death by a cougar. What's even sadder is the fund set up to receive donations to help the woman's family has received less money than the fund set up to help the baby cougars left after the cougar was killed. Whoever sent money for those cougars without at first considering the woman's family is a sick freak.

Make that eco-freaks.

Blast No. 4: Let's hear it for Jennifer Capriati.

This one-time tennis whiz-kid was busted a couple of weeks ago at her hotel room in Palm Beach for possession of marijuana (the demon weed with roots in hell) and may face other drug charges later. Her friends say that she had smoked too much crack to go with them to get more.

This just goes to show that even if the world is your oyster you can fail and become a crackhead.

Random Blasts from a Psychotic Mind

By
Chad E.
Barnes

HawkEye editor

Blast No. 5: Who will lead CBC?

A rumor is floating around the board of trustees are going to announce either Dave Abbot or Craig Mason as interim president to replace the departing Marv Weiss. I have compiled the following list of possible replacements for Weiss:

1. Andrew Scott. Our once and former ASB president has shown all of the qualifications of a good leader.
2. Me. I would only accept being president of CBC if that posh couch was still in the president's office and the new company car was a little sportier.
3. Weiss' secretary. She is probably the one who did all the work before anyway, so she's in line for a little pay raise.

Blast No. 6: I'm outta here and you're not

As I sit and write my final blast, I feel it fit to blast everyone who blasted me during my four years at CBC. To the parking guy who gave me a ticket for parking in ASB parking, ha ha ha, it wasn't worth your time because I'm never gonna pay it.

To CBC Congress (most of them that is) I give to you diapers, fitting for the bunch of babies you were all year. To the students who remain at CBC, I have determined you need the following things to be cool next year:

1. A Bad Boy club sticker for mom's car you drive.
2. A "No Fear" T-shirt.
3. A pair of expensive oakley sunglasses.
4. A flannel shirt. (that grunge look is still cool)
5. One of those acorn, penis-head haircuts.

Columbia Basin College HawkEye staff

Chad Barnes
Lora Stephens
Barbara Foster
Paul Lindberg
Melissa Gustafson
Ryan Barnett
Andy Parlow
Doreen Simon

HawkEye editor
Sports editor
Assistant copy editor
Special production
Calendar
Reporter/Columnist
Adviser
Reviewer

The Columbia Basin College HawkEye is produced by the staff newspapering class in room 101 on the Pasco campus of Columbia Basin College.

Letters to the editor are warmly encouraged, especially those that disagree with a viewpoint printed in the HawkEye. All letters must be signed with a telephone number so they may be verified.

Letters may be mailed to: the HawkEye mailbox in the A building (extension 4-52)

Columbia Basin College HawkEye
2800 N. 20th Ave.
Pasco, Washington 99662
(509)547-0511 ext. 321

Sports

Yakima sweeps CBC for Eastern crown

BY PAUL LINDBERG
HawkEye Sports Editor

Yakima Valley baseball coach Bob Garretson found an easy way to cool off on a warm afternoon in Pasco on Saturday, May 21.

After his team swept a doubleheader from Columbia Basin College, 8-6 and 10-0, to earn the NWAACC Eastern Region crown, he was doused with the water jug.

"It's been four years since we've been on top," Garretson said, dripping. "We're feeling pretty good right now."

Garretson watched as sophomore Todd Lee tossed a complete game, four-hit shutout in the nightcap to give Yakima its first title since 1990.

"You pitch a shutout and it's pretty safe to say you pitched well," Garretson said. "Todd struggled early in the season, but has been pitching well of late. He did a great job out there today."

Offensively, his team didn't disappoint him either.

Yakima exploded for seven runs in the fifth inning, highlighted by Matt Meyer's two-run homer, Dennis Caldwell's two-run double and Cary Steiner's two-run triple.

Caldwell's and Steiner's hits both came with two outs.

"I can't explain it. The last three weeks we've been hitting the ball real well," Garretson said. "But those two-out base hits were key for us — that's what wins ball games."

Yakima, which scored single runs in the second and fourth innings, got its tenth run in the sixth on a two-out, RBI single by Steiner.

CBC, which was kept off balance nearly the entire game by Lee, had only one real threat to get a runner across.

After two outs, Travis Harvey and Tony Wise hit back-to-back singles and Chad Kirby walked to load the bases. However, Lee induced Jason Crain to fly out to right field to end the inning. Wise had three of CBC's four hits.

In the opener, Thom Moulton and Wise slapped run-scoring hits in the inning, and Moulton and Scott Leger singled in runs in the second to give CBC a 4-0 lead.

But Yakima didn't let the early lead get them down.

Steiner, which was 4-for-8 on the day with four RBI, hit a run-scoring single and Mark Bailey drew a bases-loaded walk in the fourth to draw Yakima within 4-2.

Yakima then took the lead in the sixth with a four-spot, highlighted by Travis Johnson's three-run homer off CBC pitcher Bobby Posey.

CBC rallied back and tied the game in the bottom of the inning when Crain and Jason Vicens connected on RBI singles, but the Hawks coughed up the lead in the top of the seventh when Vicens let an easy grounder roll right threw his legs leading to two unearned runs.

"They gave us the opportunities to win the game and we hung in there," Garretson said. "(Linzbach) was doing a real good job for them, but that's what happens at this level."

Yakima Valley.....000 204 2 — 8 7 2

Columbia Basin.....220 002 0 — 6 9 3

Hensley, Hatfield (2), Keller (6) and Stenson; Linzbach, Posey (2) and Moulton.

2B — Moulton (CBC), HR — Johnson (Yakima).

Two or more hits — Vicens (CBC) 2x4, Moulton (CBC) 2x4, Johnson (Yakima) 2x5, Steiner (Yakima) 2x4.

Yakima Valley.....010 171 0 — 10 13 1

Columbia Basin.....000 000 0 — 0 4 0

Lee and Manthel; Adams, Bluhm (5) and Moulton, Chandler (6).

2B — Wise (CBC), Bailey (Yakima), Aspeslet (Yakima), Caldwell (Yakima).

3B — Steiner (Yakima), HR — Meyer (Yakima).

Two or more hits — Bailey (Yakima) 3x5, Aspeslet (Yakima) 2x5, Steiner (Yakima) 2x4, Wise (CBC) 3x3.

Year in review

1994 another banner year for CBC sports

BY PAUL LINDBERG
HawkEye sports editor

Another successful sports season for Columbia Basin College has come to an end.

Here's a look at how each team fared in 1994:

TENNIS

Women

The women finished second in state and brought home four individual state titles.

Freshman Michelle Barron (No. 2 singles), Andrea Harding (No. 4 singles), Trisha Burgess (No. 5 singles) and the doubles team of Burgess and Harding (No. 3 doubles) all took first in state.

Sophomore Laura Mason, who compiled a 13-3 record at No. 1 singles, took third. Barron and Mason combined for a third place finish. The duo went 15-2 this year.

Pat Baker, who came back to coach after sitting out last year with medical problems, was named the NWAACC women's coach of the year.

"It was a very successful year," Baker said. "The girls all tried hard and did a good job."

Baker said coaching this year's team really made it worth while to come back.

"This was probably the best team I've coached," Baker said. "They were really strong down the line. It felt pretty good to come back and coach."

Baker said she thinks Barron, Burgess and Harding may play again next year and she has our other local players interested.

Men

The lack of participants really hurt the men's team this year.

The number of players fell from 12 to four before the season ended.

Despite a dreadful league and overall record, CBC had a strong showing at the state tournament finishing fifth as team.

"It's tough when you have to give up three points against every opponent," said men's coach Dave Dunterman, whose team was 0-6 in league and 1-15 overall. "If we would've had just two more players we'd probably been at least .500."

Derek Dykeman, brother of Warren Dykeman which won the No. 1 singles title in 1993, took second in state at No. 1 singles. Derek Dykeman's doubles partner, Adam Saenz, was third at No. 2 singles. The duo combined for a second place finish at No. 1 doubles.

GOLF

Both the men's and women's teams struggled a bit after winning state titles in 1993.

The men won two tournaments and went 5-1 in league in this year to claim their 12th-straight division title.

But when the state tournament came around at Tacoma's North Shore Golf Course, CBC didn't contend.

"We got on a real tight course and it wasn't our forté," CBC men's and women's golf coach John Howard said.

After winning state titles in 1992 and 1993, the men's team found itself with only four quality golfers instead of the six needed to contend.

"We didn't have the productive fifth and sixth spots like we did the last two years and that hurt," Howard said. "We didn't have anyone step up and say, 'I'm going to do that job.'"

Sophomore Ken Bense, who finished fifth in the conference, led the men's team with a 73.9 stroke per round average. Bense just missed the all-state team by one stroke.

Freshman Jake Heron was eighth in conference and finished with a 74.7 average.

The women's team started out with eight golfers and quickly dwindled to one — Angela Schriver.

And with no returners back from the team that won the state title last year, CBC had to start over.

"It was a total re-start," Howard said. "We had some top high school players last year. This year we started out with good people, but other things were more important to them."

Schriver's improvement through the season was the only bright spot on this year's team. She went from shooting 115s and 117s to games in the 90s.

With women's golf being dropped from CBC's sports program, Howard is left with more time to concentrate on the men's program.

"There's a lot of good talent out there in the local high schools," Howard said. "Hopefully we'll get some of them."

Heron and three other freshman will also be back.

BASKETBALL

Both the men's and women's teams earned berths in the first round of the NWAACC playoffs, and both made early exits.

The men's team, which finished second in league at 10-2, 18-7, was ousted by visiting Walla Walla Community College, 91-73.

CBC came in after belting Blue Mountain 120-75 in Pendleton, but met with a rejuvenated Walla Walla team, the same team it beat earlier in the season.

The women's squad defeated Yakima Valley Community College 75-59 in a mini-playoff to earn a playoff berth after the two teams finished tied for fourth in the Eastern Region.

CBC traveled north to take on its first-round opponent Spokane, but fell 63-49 ending its season at 5-7, 11-14.

VOLLEYBALL

CBC slipped from winning 44 games in 1993 to 25 in 1994.

The Hawks finished the regular season with a 7-3 record, second only to Spokane, and entered the NWAACC tournament as the second seed.

CBC won its first match against Shoreline, but Mt. Hood rallied for a victory and Chemeketa won, eliminating the Hawks.

"It was an up-and-down season — kind of like a roller coaster ride," coach John Patrick said. "We didn't have the big hitters and blockers like we did the year before. We had good defense this year, but we couldn't turn that defense into points."

Courtesy of the Tri-City Herald

CBC's Kris Kosik glides in for a layup against Wenatchee's Jacob Six.

Twelve letters of intent have already been signed for the upcoming season and Patrick is excited.

"The emphasis this year recruiting was on hitting and blocking," Patrick said. "We want to win at the net. You have to be hungry if you want to win a championship and it starts with the recruiting. The talent will be here. It's just a matter of the chemistry. Hopefully, this is the team that will do it."

Meyers inducted into NWAACC Hall of Fame

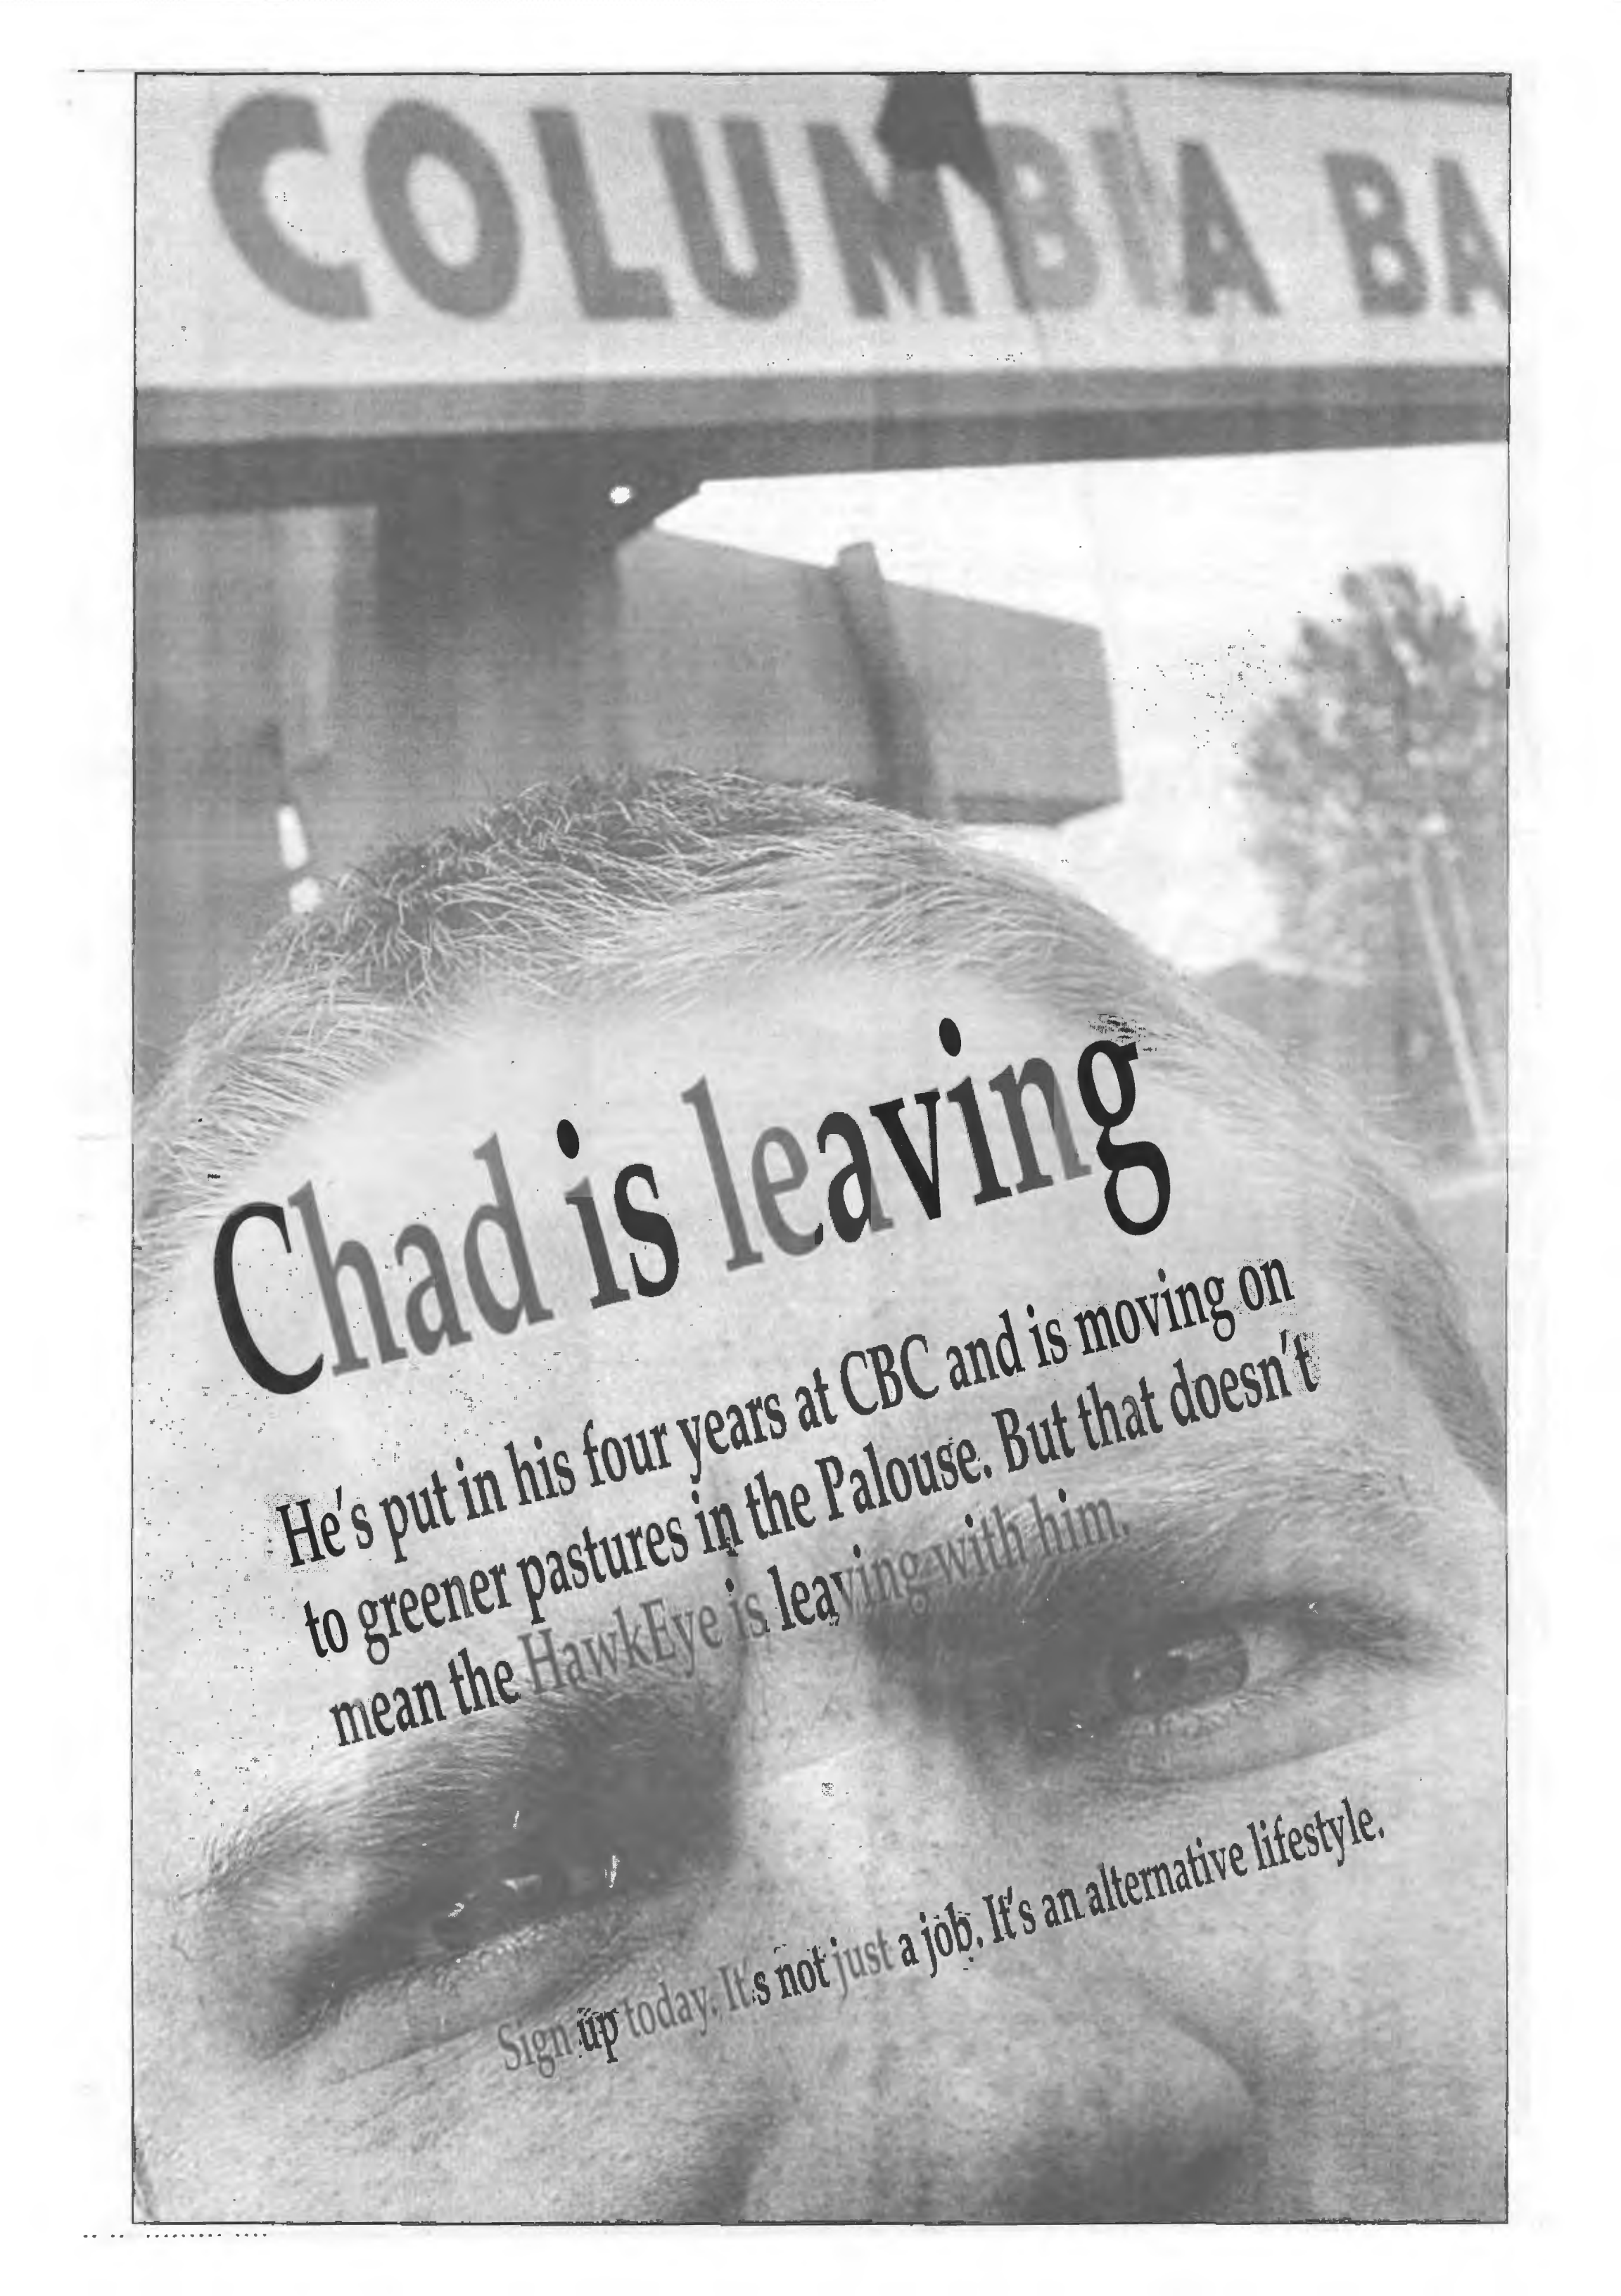

Former Columbia Basin College athletic director and volleyball coach Lynda Meyers was elected to the Northwest Athletic Association of Community College Hall of Fame last Thursday at the annual meeting of athletic commissioners held at the Pasco Red Lion.

Meyers coached CBC volleyball for 14 years and was the athletic director from 1983 to 1993. Meyers also won the Triabwassen Award in 1991. It recognizes the NWAACC's administrator of the year.

Courtesy of the Tri-City Herald

CBC's Amy Cooper, center, tries to get the ball past Spokane defenders Tiffany Scott (13) and Jolyn Kelly during a match this season.

COLUMBIA BA

Chad is leaving

He's put in his four years at CBC and is moving on to greener pastures in the Palouse. But that doesn't mean the HawkEye is leaving with him.

Sign up today. It's not just a job. It's an alternative lifestyle.